Mission:

To make life simpler for teams and individuals so they feel calm, motivated and in control of their work lives and other commitments.

Guiding principles:

To achieve the mission, the Schedullo team sought to develop a product which helps teams and individuals achieve:

1. Clarity. Knowing what's on, when. And who's doing it. It's also about who has capacity and who is overloaded with work.
2. Accountability. So users can own their work commitments and deadlines. And manage their stakeholders accordingly.
3. Agility. Provide insight to help teams and individuals think and act quicker. Visualising activities and anticipating issues. Making good business decisions at the right time (resource allocation, project priorities, etc.)
4. Engagement. Staying focused, motivated and on-task with your team mates, project sponsors and customers. Take a real interest in your collective work deliverables and work together to get projects across the line.
5. Effectiveness. To reduce procrastination, stay focused and get on with tackling your to do list. The right people are focused on the right task at the right time. Drill into the detail and stay connected to the big picture. Identify bottlenecks and deal with them before they derail your project.
6. Scalability. We felt it was important to have a product which could grow as teams grow. Adding new users to a team needed to be easy. Individuals through to whole corporations can use the same product.
